DEFENSE MAY BURN BILBAO TO FRUSTRATE FOE

Columns of Smoke Seen North City and Disorders Break Out Within Capital

BASQUES WANT TO FLEE

Leaders Would Set City Aflame To Give Franco an Empty Victory.

By The Associated Press

SANTANDER Franco - Spanish forces on June 16 — Basques were struggling today to prevent rebels from burning Bilbao to the ground and from falling into the hands of insurgents who were closing in on the proud capital from the south and could be blow from north and east.

Columns of smoke were said to be rising over Barcaldo on the west bank of the Nervion river two miles south of the ancient city. Foreign observers reported fires and explosions had broken out in the Achuri section of Bilbao.

Leaders who wanted to evacuate the city could be fighting the extremists who sought to fire the city and present insurgent General Francisco Franco with the ruins of victory.

Refugees in Flight

Thousands of refugees were streaming out of the long besieged industrial center along the only open roads westward to Santander where it was thought the Basque government would be moved if the city's last days fell.

Pitiful scenes were witnessed along the roadsides where the refugees—many of them sleepless for days and more—straggled with their bundles of cherished belongings to at least temporary safety.

One group arrived in Santander after a 100-mile trek only to be caught by an insurgent air raid.

All available buildings in Santander including schools halls and motion picture theaters, were converted into shelters for the refugees.

They were fleeing Bilbao on foot, by rail and by sea. Four British merchantmen and a fleet of Spanish fishing trawlers flying the flag of the Red Cross brought many of the women and children to Santander.

The evacuation of the women and children and the men too old for fighting was speeded by the shower of bullets ricochetting through the streets from the insurgent guns on the hills.

Those who remained barricaded themselves for a last stand.

Occupy Three Towns

A column of Legionnaires swept over the towns of Plencia, Bermeo and Gorliz, and forced the crossing of the Butron river which flows parallel to the Nervion four miles to the east.

Thus the northern pincer of the movement by which Franco hopes to encircle the city before launching the general advance of his entire army into the capital was complete.

The southern wing with its field base at Galdacano five miles south of Bilbao completed the encircling of the Ibaizabal valley and was moving toward a junction with troops from Begona and the Santo Domingo heights beyond.

Fascist troops held places on three sides of the city, leaving only the Nervion to be crossed and the heights on the west to be occupied before the order for the occupation went out.

Madrid suffered the worst night shelling of its seven months siege as insurgent shells pounding into the heart of the capital at the rate of 20 or 30 a minute.

Government artillery responded in a counter range duel.

The Gran Via Alcala street and Cibeles square, all in the center of the city received the brunt of the bombardment along with several suburbs.

It was the second bombardment within 12 hours. During the late afternoon insurgent shells claimed a few casualties.

Meanwhile Germany and Italy remained rejoined the international non-intervention patrol to keep arms and men from reaching Spain.

Back-to-Work Plan Fails As Blast Shakes Plant

Youngstown Sheet Leader Rejects Workers' Appeal but Detroiters Return to Work; Union Asks for Election in Strike-Bound Bethlehem Mill

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 16—A back-to-work movement, designed to reopen the strike-sieged mills of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co ended inconclusively today as a dynamite explosion heightened the tension on another front in the big steel strike area.

A similar back-to-work move in Detroit, however gained momentum in some General Motors Corp plants with the settlement of a walkout that has kept 17,000 employes of the Fernstedt Manufacturing Co of Detroit idle since June 7.

The Steel Workers Organizing Committee proposed to the Bethlehem Steel Corp that an election be held at the strikebound Cambria works in Johnstown Pa., to determine whether John L. Lewis steel union will represent the employes in collective bargaining.

Send Proposal to Grace

Pittsburgh headquarters of the union announced a telegram had been sent to Eugene Grace president of Bethlehem, making the proposal.

The union stipulated that if the union wins the election, the company should agree to a written contract—the prime point at which independent steel companies have balked.

Frank Purnell president of Youngstown Sheet & Tube vetoed —"for the moment, at least"—the back-to-work plan submitted by Ray L. Thomas who said he was a spokesman for 10,000 non striking steel workers in the Mahoning valley.

Purnell declined to give the workers delegation any answer except that he would move "as rapidly as possible" to obtain promises of protection from civil authorities for men who want to go back to work.

Mills Idle Three Weeks

The mills have been idle for three weeks.

At Warren O another tense point in the Mahoning valley steel area, Judge Lynn B Griffith ordered the Republic Steel Corp to bring into court any records showing how much has been spent for machine-guns tear-gas bombs labor spies' and company unions.

At Ambridge Pa, a spokesman for an American Federation of Labor union asserted in a protest to President Roosevelt and Attorney General Homer Cummings that CIO pickets prevented A F of L workers from returning to their jobs.

The protest followed yesterday's clash at Ambridge when scores were beaten in a free for all between 500 CIO pickets and 50 A F of L members attempting a back-to-work movement.

Blast at Johnstown

On the eastern front of the strike war an explosion at Johnstown Pa. sent scores of terror-stricken residents tumbling from their beds into the streets before dawn today.

The explosion—police believe it was caused by a bomb—shattered the temporary calm outide the gates of the Bethlehem Steel plant at Johnstown, Pa., just before dawn. No one was hurt, but taut-nerved citizens for blocks around ran excitedly into the streets.

Just 24 hours before there had been fierce fighting at the same strike bound plant and there had been dynamiting at Warren O.

Today's blast was near the Gautier plant of Bethlehem's sprawling Cambria works. It ripped away a large section of concrete walk and shattered several windows. No police were on duty there.

The explosion came on the heels

CUT IS ORDERED IN LIGHT RATE

Marion Reserve Power Makes Reduction Affecting 1,350 Commercial Customers

SAVES $17,000 A YEAR

Voluntary Cut Approved Today by State Utilities Commission in Columbus

A voluntary reduction in electric rates which will effect savings estimated at $17,000 a year for Marion commercial customers of the Marion Reserve Power Co was approved today by the state utilities commission at Columbus.

Approximately 1,350 Marion customers principally business places, will share in the reduction, company officials said. All consumers not classed as residential or industrial are affected.

The reduction will become effective July 15.—Chester C. Roberts, president of the company, said the voluntary cut extends to commercial users of electricity a proportionate share of savings given residential customers in a two-step downward revision of rates completed on Jan. 1.

Rates were lowered, he said, in an attempt to build up the commercial lighting load in Marion in line with the company's policy of encouraging increased consumption of electricity.

The new commercial rates are as follows:

Six cents a kilowatt hour for the first 50 kilowatt hours each month, five cents a kilowatt hour for the next 450 kilowatt hours, four cents a kilowatt hour for the next 500 kilowatt hours, three cents a kilowatt hour for all over 1,000 kilowatt hours.

The rate now in effect is as follows:

Six and one-half cents a kilowatt hour for the first 100 kilowatt hours each month, five cents a kilowatt hour for the next 900 kilowatt hours, four cents a kilowatt hour for the next 1,000 kilowatt hours, three cents a kilowatt hour for all above 2,000 kilowatt hours each month.

The clause in the rate schedule outlining the minimum monthly bill remains unchanged. It calls for $1 a month for the first two kilowatts of demand and 50 cents per kilowatt of demand that exceeds two kilowatts but not less than $1. A penalty of five per cent of the bill for delaying payments more than 15 days after billing remains in effect.

G-MEN TAKE HAND IN HUNT FOR HEIRESS

Rumors of Contact Quickly Denied as Government Agents Search Woods

By The Associated Press

STONY BROOK, N. Y., June 16—The federal bureau of investigation, with a noteworthy record of solutions in the Lindbergh, Weyerhauser Stoll and other spectacular kidnapings, today tackled the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Alice McDonell Parsons, north shore Long Island society matron.

Even as the federal men swung into action there came reports quickly denied however, by the government agents, that a definite contact had been established with the supposed kidnapers.

Outwardly the federal men concentrated on the third-day search of the dense woods and undergrowth northeast of the trim little farm house from which Mrs. Parsons vanished a week ago today. Behind the scenes they veiled their activities with utter secrecy.

Arthur E. Calnan, 34 one of the Associated Press reporters assigned to the Parsons kidnaping was killed early today when an automobile he was driving crashed into a stone wall on a main street curve at Port Jefferson N. Y.

The three men pictured here will figure prominently in the biennial convention of the Fifth division of the Railway Mail association which opens here tonight at Hotel Harding with a 7:30 banquet. Mr. Allison, state director of finance, personal representative of Gov. Davey, will be among several speakers tonight. Mr. Burris of Cincinnati reelected division president yesterday, will preside at the banquet and also at the official convention which opens at 9 a. m. tomorrow in Eagles hall. Mr. Luvisi of 209 Hone avenue, as president of the Marion branch of the association is in charge of all local arrangements.

Mail Clerk "Twins" Meet First Time Here Today

Marion and Zanesville Men Born Same Day Entered Service and Retired Same Time

Two railway mail clerks one a Marion man and the other from Zanesville, both of whom were born the same day entered the service the same year and retired within a month of each other, met for the first time yesterday at the convention of the Fifth division of the Railway Mail association here yesterday.

The men are the oldest members of the division attending the convention. The Marion man is J. Byron Hume of 318 South State street, now employed at the Jay H. Walsh Co., and the other is W. C. Bisant of Zanesville—who now devotes his life to the pleasures of retirement. Both are active members.

The two introduced at Hotel Harding and still unaware of their almost identical lives began to converse casually, their talk going something like this:

When were you born Mr. Bisant?

"In 1854."

"Is that so? That's my year. It couldn't be July, could it?"

Both Born July 17

Further conversation brought out that both were born on July 17, that both entered the railway service during Grover Cleveland's first administration in 1885 and that both retired in 1920. Mr. Hume in July and Mr. Bisant in August.

Mr. Hume today recalled the radical changes that have been made in the service since he began. The cars were wooden and splintered and crashed with tremendous casualties to the mail clerks in every wreck. Heat was made by a coal stove which circulated hot water through the cars and light was by coal oil lamps.

Mr. Hume was in one of the most unusual wrecks in the service near St. Louis in 1894.

We were a little late getting started and our engine was then the largest on the Pennsylvania lines. It was one that had been on exhibition at the World's fair the year before. Well, we hit a curve and the tracks weren't built at all for speed—weren't banked on the outside—and the engine toppled over. We were going so fast that our car was crushed under the engine as it fell.

Mr. Hume was off duty a year as a result of the wreck. Nine others were injured and one killed.

His first "run" was on the Pennsylvania between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, then between St. Louis and Pittsburgh on the Panhandle and for 20 years until retirement on the Erie between Marion and Salamanca, N. Y.

Has Two Children

He is the father of Rodney Hume of Girard avenue and Mrs. Jay H. Walsh. He worked at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. in the mail department until 1920.

Mr. Bisant worked on the Baltimore & Ohio during his 35 years of service and was in two of the worst wrecks on the line.

"The first was in 1907 at Bellaire, O." Mr. Bisant recalled. Thirteen were killed and three injured. It was caused by an operator switching our train headon into a freight and there wasn't much reason for it since there were double tracks. The operator went to West Virginia and was

Miss MacDonald Mum on Nuptial Planned Tonight

Preparations for Her Marriage to Gene Raymond Kept Strict Secret.

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 16—Smiling but serious Jeanette MacDonald refused today to disclose a single detail of arrangements for the wedding tonight which will make her the bride of Gene Raymond, yellow haired movie actor.

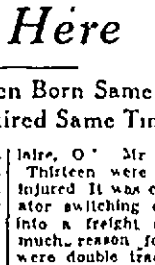
"I'm superstitious" she said. "It's bad luck to tell those things."

She meant it. Officials at M-G-M studios where the actress is under contract said they didn't know. Her friends professed ignorance. The 11 bridal attendants said they were sworn to secrecy.

Hollywood knows it will be a lavish affair, the first big church wedding in the movie colony since that June day, 10 years ago, when Vilma Banky became Mrs. Rod Laroque and Beverly Hills police had to call out the reserves.

Los Angeles police know it will be hard to handle.

They ordered 100 officers to the Wilshire Methodist Episcopal church and prepared to reroute traffic on Wilshire boulevard, the biggest, busiest and most fashionable thoroughfare in the city.



They predicted there would be 10,000 uninvited guests.

This would be Gene Raymond more than twice the number waiting when Laroque and Miss Banky left the church were shoved and manhandled, and lost bits of their costumes to souvenir hunters. Flowers were ripped away. The bridal party was separated, and

Bullion Cargo Here on Way to U. S. Gold Cache

Heavily Guarded Train Passes Through Marion on Way to Fort Knox, Ky.

For a minute or two last night Marion was perhaps richer than at any other time in its history as a government gold train passed through the city enroute to the newly built vaults near Fort Knox, Ky. Although details of the shipments are kept in strict secrecy by the government until the gold is safely cached officials of the Big Four railroad today furnished a brief description.

The train consisting of four or five cars, including a passenger car, passed through from Cleveland about 8 p. m. It went to Cincinnati and is believed to have originated in New York City.

Accompanying the train were 61 men believed to be soldiers, 32 of them on duty and 32 off duty. The trains are given special handling by the railroad and only a few stops are permitted by the government to lessen chances of a hold up.

The railroad officials here said it is the fourth or fifth gold bullion train to pass through here in recent months.

The government has constructed elaborate underground vaults in Kentucky as a place of safekeeping for its billions of dollars worth of bullion previously kept on the east coast for the most part.

STEEL MAKERS TURN TO NLRB

Ask Whether Company Must Sign Accord Reached With Its Workmen.

BOARD SCANS INLAND CASE

Roosevelt Says Common Sense Indicates Voluntary Agreements Be Signed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16—The steel industry turned to the government today for an answer to the problem which prompted the current strikes. Must a company actually sign an agreement reached with its workers?

Chairman Madden said the national labor relations board probably would rule on this contentious point after a hearing on the complaint that Inland Steel Co. violated the Wagner act by refusing to sign an agreement with its workers.

He said the board raised the issue in that case on its own initiative believing after a preliminary examination of steel union charges that Inland's failure to sign the compact could be interpreted legally as a violation of the act.

Should Be Willing to Sign

President Roosevelt said yesterday common sense dictated that if a man willingly agreed to a verbal collective bargaining contract, he should put it in writing.

He did not say, however whether he believed failure to do so violated the Wagner act.

The labor relations board decided last July that the St. Joseph Mo. Stockyards Co. violated the Wagner act by refusing to put a mutual understanding with its employes "in a binding agreement."

The board said then "An employer is not required to sign the specific agreement presented to him by representatives of his employes. Nor is he obligated to agree to any of their demands solely for the sake of reaching some agreement when genuine accord is impossible although both sides are acting in good faith."

Claim Separation Distinct

"But the line between these two closely areas and the duty imposed by the act is distinct, the employer must negotiate in good faith in an endeavor to reach an understanding and that understanding if eventually achieved must be incorporated into an agreement if the representative of the employes so request."

The supreme court decision validating the Wagner act said specifically it does not compel agreements between employers and employes' but did not touch on the question of a company refusing to writing an agreement it reached with its workers.

CAREY FIRM LOW ON MARION CO. ROAD JOB

Dunn & Roller Co. Seeks Columbus-Sandusky Highway Project With $103,581 Bid.

Low bid of $103,581.47 by the Dunn and Roller construction firm of Carey was received by the state highway department at Columbus yesterday for the contract for improvement of Route 98 north from Waldo. The Associated Press reported. The bid is the exact amount of the estimate made by the department last month in advertising for bids.

The length of the improvement is 10.983 miles and will extend from the intersection of Route 23 just south of Waldo, to the intersection of Route 30 five miles east of Marion. The work will include grading berms and paving the entire length with a waterbound macadam surface.

The road known also as the Columbus-Sandusky road, was taken over by the state highway department in 1923 and since then has had several treatments.

The pavement will be 20 feet wide and the roadway 30 feet wide. The work is to be completed in 100 days.

The Marion county project was one of eight for which bids were opened yesterday. The total of the eight projects is $457,787.15 for the improvement of 43.277 miles of road. The total bids were $45,276.42 under the estimates of state engineers.

P. D. Smith Heads Drive for New Type of Ballot

Marion Attorney Named Secretary of Association With Headquarters in Columbus.

Announcement was made today by the committee for the Adoption of the Massachusetts Ballot that Paul D. Smith, Marion attorney, will serve as state secretary in charge of the campaign. Mr. Smith will have headquarters at the Virginia Hotel in Columbus, which are being opened today.

The Massachusetts ballot used in the state of its origin for 45 years and now used in several other states eliminates the present system of voting a "straight" party ticket in general elections. To vote, a person must mark an X before the name of a candidate for each office and is not permitted to place an X at the top of the party column.

As state secretary, Mr. Smith will have virtual charge of the organization of the movement. He will name chairmen and committees for each county, take care of all correspondence and will be required to travel considerably through the state. He will also organize a speakers' bureau and do some public speaking personally.

The movement is strictly non-partisan. Headquarters have been established at the Virginia hotel in Columbus, but Mr. Smith will continue to be at his law offices at 120½ South Main street.

The Massachusetts ballot should prevent the tendency, under our present form of ballot, to have the election of all candidates, regardless of the merit or fitness for office, controlled largely by the top candidate of a particular party," Mr. Smith said.

In 1928 he points out, many excellent Democratic candidates might have been elected despite the popularity of Hoover then, and in 1932 and 1936 many excellent Republicans might have been elected despite the popularity of Roosevelt—if the Massachusetts ballots had been in effect here. No particular party will benefit by the change to the ballot, Mr. Smith said.

The committee expects to obtain 200,000 names on petitions before Aug. 1 in order to put the adoption of the ballot to a state vote this November. If the movement fails this year it will be continued until successful, Mr. Smith said.

Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Smith of Prospect where he received his education. He was graduated from Ohio State university law school in 1922 and has practiced here since.

BALL LEAGUE OFFICIAL TALKS

Harry Smith, Ohio State Loop President, Addresses Marion Rotary Club.

A half-hour act of magic and a brief talk on the Ohio State league baseball team which is being transferred here next week from Sandusky, featured the weekly luncheon meeting of the Marion Rotary club at Hotel Harding yesterday noon.

"You've got a pennant winner," was the assertion of Harry Smith of Columbus, president of the Ohio State league, in referring to the baseball team which will represent Marion in the state circuit. "It's a privilege to plant the standard of organized baseball in Marion and you're going to be agreeably surprised by the club which is coming here," Smith told the 60 Rotarians present.

Citing the fact that the team, now under the Sandusky banner, is the only one of the six-club league which is privately owned, he pointed to their consistently good baseball playing. In the case of other loop teams, he pointed out, the ownership rests with a major league outfit and each fall they draw heavily on the Ohio State teams' resources for players. This however, he asserted, isn't the case with the Sandusky team which is owned solely by R. R. Thompson of Toledo, widely known for his practice of putting strong ball clubs on the field.

President Smith spoke highly of James "Chapple" Geygan, playing manager of the team, who he asserted, is among the most competent in the league. The brief talk followed the luncheon during which those present were entertained with selections by the NYA hobo band. Immediately after the talk, Dr. Carroll Ritchey presented a highly pleasing act of magic.

SCHORR LOSES BATTLE IN SUPREME COURT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 16—The Ohio supreme court today upheld the emergency clause of the so-called "sick commissioner" bill which changed the appointive power for filling vacancies on county commissions.

Ed D. Schorr, state Republican chairman, had sought a writ of mandamus to force Secretary of State William J. Kennedy to permit a referendum on the bill.

Kennedy, in refusing to authorize a referendum, said that emergency legislation passed by the legislature was not subject to referendum.

Schorr contended before the court that the commissioner act could not be classed as emergency legislation.

In another case, the court allowed Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy a writ of mandamus to compel State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to pay fees totaling $9,100 to three special assistants of the attorney general.

NEW TRIAL SOUGHT IN DRAKE WILL CASE

Defendants in Suit To Break Codicil Ask Retrial in Motion.

Charging "passion and prejudice" on the part of the jury, attorneys for Charles and Anna Dell Drake, defendants in a suit to invalidate a codicil to a will left by the late Mrs. Barbara Drake of south of Caledonia, filed a motion for a new trial yesterday afternoon in common pleas court.

In a verdict returned Saturday at noon, a common pleas court jury ordered the codicil broken, after deliberating 30 minutes.

The new trial motion sets forth 12 arguments in asking that the jury verdict be set aside. Among the contentions are that there allegedly was misconduct on the part of the jury; the verdict was the result of passion and prejudice against the defendants or one of them; that the verdict is not sustained by sufficient evidence, and that it is contrary to the weight of the evidence.

The defendants further charge that the court erred in admitting evidence to which defendants' counsel had objected and that there was error in the court's charge of the jury.

The suit to break the codicil was brought by Mrs. Amanda Hipsher, Mrs. Lavina Coulter and Frank B. Drake. Under terms of the instrument, Charles Drake was to be relieved of a $500 debt charged against him by the mother in the will; he was to be made executor of the estate and he and Anna Drake were to possess the Drake farm for six years, after which it was to be distributed equally among all the children.

The new trial motion was filed by Homer E. Johnson, French Crow and Milo L. Myers, attorneys for the defendants.

Two Marion Youths To Visit France With DeMolay Group

Harold Callahan and Ben W. Wiant Among 36 from United States To Leave June 25 on One-Month Tour.

Harold Callahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Callahan of 256 Leader street, and Ben W. Wiant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Wiant of 415 South Grand avenue, will leave Marion next Wednesday for New York City and sail June 25 on a DeMolay pilgrimage.

Thirty-six young men from DeMolay chapters in all parts of the country will make the trip to the little village of Molay near Vesoul, France, rich in meaning to members of the order.

The pilgrimage was arranged for by "Dad" Conner, a former resident of the United States who has lived in Paris for the last 17 years. In this country he was the "Dad" of a DeMolay chapter and he has retained a lively interest in the order and its members. Any DeMolay member who could meet the minimum finances required was privileged to make the tour.

Callahan and Wiant, members of Marion chapter of DeMolay, will be accompanied to New York City by Wiant's parents. They will sail at midnight June 25, on the S. S. Volendan of the Holland-American line and will be gone a month, returning to New York City on July 27. After a few days of sightseeing in New York they will return home.

From Havre the party of 36 young men will go to Paris, passing through picturesque Brittany. The trip from Paris to Molay will cover four days and will include visits to Chateau Thierry, Rheims, Troyes, Vesoul and many other towns and villages in France. The trip from the capital almost to the Swiss border will be through country rich in historic events. The high spot for DeMolays will be the gathering at the site of the martyrdom of Jacques DeMolay, Christian martyr of Crusade days for whom the order is named.

The second trip outside Paris will be to the famous palace at Versailles, near the capital.

In Paris there will be many carefully planned sightseeing expeditions under the direction of Mr. Conner. Among the places he has chosen to show the pilgrims are the Louvre, Napoleon's tomb, Notre Dame cathedral, the Eiffel Tower, the Cluny Museum, the Montemarte, the Tuileries, the Avenue des Champs Elysees, the President's Palace, the Arch of Triumph, Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and the Place de la Concorde.

In addition there will be trips to the International Exposition. Ample time will be allowed the young men in Paris for independent sight seeing as well as the scheduled trips under Mr. Conner's direction.

REP. W. P. CONNERY DIES IN WASHINGTON

Champion of Labor's Cause Stricken Suddenly Due to Food Poisoning.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16 — William P. Connery Jr., 48-year-old chairman of the house labor committee and champion of recent labor legislation, died unexpectedly late yesterday.

The Massachusetts Democrat had been ill only 22 hours at Homeopathic hospital when he succumbed at 5:15 p. m. to what attending physicians described as "food poisoning."

Connery's wife and his brother, Lawrence C. Connery, of Lynn, Mass., were on their way by automobile to the capital when the congressman was administered the last rites of the Catholic church.

Mrs. Connery learned of her husband's death as she started to board a plane at East Hartford, Conn., and returned to Lynn to await arrival of the body.

A woman is in line for the chairmanship of the important house committee left vacant by the death of Connery.

She is Rep. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey, the first woman Democrat elected to congress.

Connery's death prevented him from seeing the fulfillment of his lifelong ambition—a federal law regulating maximum hours and minimum wages and outlawing child labor.

The joint senate-house committees are studying a bill introduced by Connery and Sen. Black, Democrat of Alabama to achieve that objective.

A staunch believer in a 30-hour work week to relieve unemployment, Connery also championed the Wagner labor relations act through the house and fought for elimination of child labor.

VETERANS PAY LAYTON HONOR

Send Gifts to State Commander, Ill at Home in Marion.

Tributes to their commander, Francis S. Layton of North Main street, commander of the Ohio Department of the G. A. R., sent by veterans and their allied patriotic organizations now in session at Columbus were brought to Marion last night by Francis H. Layton, son of the retiring commander, who attended the sessions Monday and yesterday.

Commander Layton is unable because of illness to attend the encampment which will close Thursday.

Gifts include a past commander's badge which was presented Commander Layton's son Monday night, and a large flag, 18x26 inches, made of blue cornflowers and red and white carnations, which occupied a place of honor in the convention headquarters, the gift of the Ladies of the G. A. R., baskets of flowers from the Spanish-American War veterans and the auxiliary, a silk umbrella, presented by Corporal Harris circle, Ladies of the G. A. R. of Marion, money, and other remembrances.

At the close of the encampment a number of the affiliated organizations plan to come to Marion to visit Commander Layton. They will be accompanied by the Betsy Ross quartet and possibly one or more Civil War veterans. Commander Layton's remembrance to his comrades and officers was a rose from his garden.

The veterans voted to return to Columbus next year for their seventy-second annual encampment. Byron Joslin of Sidney, George Burley of Toledo and George W. Funk of New Lexington, were named delegates to the national meeting in September at Madison, Wis. Thomas Ridenour of Crestline was named alternate.

The convention is split on the question of whether or not Confederate veterans should meet with Union veterans at the National Grand Army of the Republic encampment in Gettysburg, Pa., in 1938.

DAVEY'S HANDBILL DRIVE DENOUNCED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 16—Two state senators joined today with Lieut. Gov. Paul P. Yoder and State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson in attacking Gov. Martin L. Davey's use of handbills in a legislative fight on the biennial state budget.

Large handbills defending the administration's $90,000,000 budget were distributed throughout the state yesterday, in some instances by state highway employes.

MARION'S NEW BASEBALL TEAM ARRIVES IN CITY

Comes from Sandusky Nearly Week Ahead of Opening Game; 13 Players on Ohio State League Squad.

Marion's team in the Ohio State baseball league arrived in the city shortly after noon today from Sandusky, where the club has been since the start of the current season. Manager James "Chappie" Geygan, former big leaguer, and R. R. Thompson, owner, led the vanguard of players into the city.

Their arrival today, nearly a week ahead of the opening home game next Tuesday, was arranged so that the players would have an opportunity to work out on the new field. Geygan, the playing-manager, and 13 youthful diamond artists compose the club which is to represent the city in the Ohio State loop during the remainder of the season.

Today the aggregation holds second place in the league standings, trailing the loop leaders, Mansfield's Red Sox by one game. Sandusky yesterday was defeated 6 to 2 by Fremont, while Mansfield jolted Fostoria, 11 to 9, and Tiffin won over Findlay, 9 to 3. The Marion team will be idle today and Thursday, playing at Fostoria Friday and in a double-header at Tiffin Sunday.

Players To Room Here

The members of the team will stay in private homes here, traveling to and from the city for out-of-town contests. Manager Geygan will make his home in Marion, while Thompson will divide his time between business intereats at his home in Toledo and the baseball team here.

Manager Geygan announced upon his arrival he hoped to put the team through its first workout on the Lincoln park diamond tomorrow afternoon. While team members busied themselves this afternoon getting acclimated to their new surroundings, work progressed along other angles in connection with the club's transfer to Marion. WPA workmen at Lincoln park were rushing to completion work which will put the field in shape for the first game next Tuesday, and Junior Chamber of Commerce plans for the opening day program moved forward.

At Lincoln park today workmen were rebuilding the pitch mound and getting the infield in shape for play. Temporary players' benches to be used until the regular concrete dugouts are completed, were constructed today. Workmen on the $20,000 WPA concrete stadium were smoothing and rubbing the fourth section of concrete poured last Saturday and putting in forms for the final section.

Stadium To Seat 1,700

The stadium will offer seating facilities for approximately 1,200 persons and upon completion will provide seats for more than 1,700. For the present, approximately three-fourths of the stadium which is already completed will be used, with the remaining section expected to be ready by July 20.

Junior Chamber of Commerce officials announced this morning that the ticket sale drive for the "booster day" game will be launched late today. An effort is being made to raise $2,000 to support the baseball club and assure its return here next season. The "booster day" tickets, at 50 cents each, will be recognized at the gate on the opening day and during several later games.

Plans for opening day ceremonies are likewise nearing completion under the direction of the Junior Chamber members. Harry Smith of Columbus, president of the Ohio State league, visited the city yesterday and made a brief talk before the Rotary luncheon meeting at Hotel Harding. He will return again tomorrow noon to speak at the Kiwanis luncheon at Hotel Marion and is making plans to be on hand here for the opening game.

MAIL CLERK TWINS MEET HERE TODAY

killed in a depot hold-up. I was laid up 13 months."

The second occurred at Willard, O., in 1910, and was also a collision with a freight caused by a misunderstanding.

"We were eight minutes late and were speeding to make it up when the freight backed into our path and we crashed into it," he said. "I was off seven months with a broken collar bone. Only the engineer and fireman were killed in that one."

Mr. Bisant recalls that the clerks in 1885 sorted the mail only partially on the trains, giving it to stations to distribute. Today the mail is distributed in many pouches, each for a town.

The railway mail service was founded shortly after the battle of Shiloh in the Civil war as a result of relatives in the north clamoring for news of the men in the war. The government as an emergency move put all the mail in a baggage car. One George Armstrong, now credited with being the founder of the service, hit on the idea of sorting the mail in the car and dropping it off at major points along the route. The first trial government trip was made a few months later out of Chicago and gradually the service developed to the countrywide network of today.

BACK TO WORK PLAN FAILS IN STEEL STRIKE

of a volley of words from two big guns of steel. Only a few hours earlier there had been oral blasts from Tom Girdler of Republic Steel and Frank Purnell of Youngstown Sheet & Tube—two generals in the fight against the CIO strike.

"Communistic" was the way fiery Tom Girdler labelled John L. Lewis' CIO. Purnell, president of Sheet & Tube, was not as outspoken. Both reiterated that their determination not to sign CIO contracts—the crux of the situation under which more than 100,000 workers are idle—was unchanged.

President Roosevelt, commenting in Washington at the regular press conference, said he thought Republic Steel should be willing to put a verbal contract into writing; that common sense dictated that if a man were willing to make a verbal agreement he should go further and put his name to it.

State Police Arrive

At Johnstown more state policemen poured into the city, and Mayor Daniel Shields announced he had deputized "at least 400 men."

The "back-to-work" movement picked up momentum here as spokesmen for non-striking workers they estimate at 10,000 prepared to confer today with President Purnell about reopening Sheet & Tube Co. plants, closed three weeks ago by the strike.

"The men are ready to go back to work at any time," said their spokesman, Ray L. Thomas. "We hope to have them back by tomorrow."

Spokesmen for non-striking Republic Steel workers said their men "felt the same way," and that they had "back-to-work" signatures from 70 per cent of Republic's 8,000 employes in Youngstown.

But CIO leaders made ready to meet the challenge. They hurriedly arranged a series of mass meetings throughout the strike-locked Mahoning valley today to bolster strike morale. CIO's director for Ohio, John Owens, was called in to take personal charge of the strike and to head today's speakers.

CIO chiefs scored the "back-to-work" movement as having been inspired by "the professional strike-breaker, Pearl Bergoff."

Girdler, Purnell Called

Gov. Martin L. Davey, undismayed by the failure of his peace conference yesterday, called upon Girdler and Purnell to meet with him tomorrow. He hopes that in a conference at which union men are not present he may be able to learn from the steel executive just what terms would be acceptable.

There was little prospect, however, that either Girdler or Purnell would accept the invitation. Girdler did not comment, and Purnell, asked if he would attend the meeting, replied:

"I have nothing to say about that at all."

Girdler, in a statement distributed "to our employes" late yesterday, gave what he called "a first hand account of the situation existing throughout the corporation."

Republic Steel plants at Buffalo, Chicago, Canton, Warren and Niles, O., he said, "are operating in spite of armed pickets," and "the sixth open hearth furnace and the wire mill have been started at Chicago."

(It was at Republic's south Chicago plant on Memorial Sunday that nine persons died in consequence of a massed march on the plant. The ninth death occurred yesterday).

Claims More Working

Girdler said that the number of employes at all these plants was increasing daily; that employes had been housed and fed in the plants; and that at Warren and Niles food is being flown to the men in planes.

Republic Ordered To Reveal Records

By The Associated Press

WARREN, O., June 16—Judge Lynn B. Griffith ordered the Republic Steel Co. today to bring into court any records showing how much had been spent for machine guns, tear gas, "labor spies, private detective agencies and company unions."

Judge Griffith held that the company need not produce records regarding employe discharges, applications for employment, the list of names of those employes in the plant during the strike and all strike records.

The judge made his ruling at the start of the third day's hearing on Republic's petition for an injunction to curtail picketing.

Counsel for the striking Steel Workers Organizing Committee had asked the court for the records as well as the presence of Tom Girdler, Republic chairman.

Republic's counsel promised the court to check immediately on which of the records ordered were available.

Postal Strike Data Barred

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16 — The house postoffice committee reported adversely today a resolution to require the postmaster general to give congress all information on charges the postal service has refused to deliver mail to Ohio Steel plants where workers are on strike.

Committee Chairman Mead, Democrat of New York, made public a letter from W. W. Howes, acting postmaster general, denying the department had refused to make delivery of mail which conformed "established conditions."

Howes added, however, postal officials at Youngstown, Niles and Warren, O., "declined to accept parcels of a character not hitherto mailed to the addressee industrial plants."

COMPROMISE LIKELY ON RELIEF ECONOMY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16 — Senate administration leaders forecast today a compromise on an economy proposal to place a greater share of the federal relief burden on the local governments.

An amendment to the $1,500,000,000 relief bill, requiring states and cities—if able—to put up 40 per cent of the cost of local work projects, was up for a vote today. The leaders said a smaller percentage was likely to be approved.

MAIL CLERKS OF FOUR STATES OPEN MEETING

Harding lobby for visitors. The visiting women will be entertained tomorrow by the Marion auxiliary at a 12:30 luncheon at the hotel, a ceremony at the Harding tomb at 2:30 and a visit to the home, and a card party and refreshments at 7:30 in the evening.

The official business sessions of the association are scheduled to begin at 9 a. m. at Eagles' hall.

To Draw Resolutions

Business scheduled for consideration tomorrow before the convention consists of drafting and adoption of resolutions to pass on the national convention and then to congress.

Probably the principal proposal is that concerning the lowering of the retirement age for mail clerks, Mr. Burris said. At present the retirement limit is 60 after 30 years of service and as a result of the minimum retirement age the government trust fund has been piling up tremendously until now there is a total of $120,000,000. This is created through a deduction of 3½ per cent from the salary of each clerk and is to be paid as a pension to him on retirement.

The association is generally of the opinion that a reduction of the minimum retirement age to 58 will reduce the unwieldly fund to a less burdensome size and will also be more in trend with the present tendency of business to retire its employes at an earlier age than in the past.

Another item up for consideration tomorrow will be the liberalization of the postal law as it affects substitute railway mail clerks who are also members of the association. The chief change proposed is to give substitutes the 10-day annual sick leave and the annual 15-day vacation, each with pay, now granted only to regular clerks.

Speed Brings Problem

The speeding up of trains over the past quarter of a century has created a problem which will be considered tomorrow. The years of service under present laws are based on a certain number of hours for each day and for each year. With the speeding up of trains, the clerk makes his regular trip in far fewer hours than he did 25 years ago and as a result now has to make more trips to get in his quota of hours, Mr. Burris explained.

The association for a number of years has proposed that the year (and hence the 30-year period required for retirement and a pension) be based on so many trips rather than hours, thus offsetting the effect of the high speed trains of today.

A bill to this effect was passed by both houses of the seventy-fourth congress, but was later reconsidered by the senate and rejected.

Mr. Burris, who has been president of the Fifth division since 1921 with the exception of 1925-26, entered the railway mail service in 1901. His birthplace is Connorsville, Ind., where he lived until 19 years ago. His "run" is from Chicago to Cincinnati, on the Big Four. He is married and has a son and daughter.

Mr. Bosler joined the mail service in 1906 and has been working on the Monon line between Chicago and Louisville since then. Prior to joining the service he operated a laundry at his home town in New Albany, Ind., Mrs. Bosler was to arrive today. They are the parents of two daughters and a son.

Clerks Are Studious

An interesting sidelight on the work of the railway mail clerk was brought out by Mr. Burris who said they study more than any other class of workers.

"Half our working time is spent in study," he said. "The clerk must have an extremely good memory for he must know by heart the name, routing and county of every town in his district. Usually when a clerk reaches one end of his run, he has a stopover of several hours during which he must study his district postoffices and routes and be paid for it."

The Railway Mail association was first organized in 1855, and then consisted only of one branch, the legislative. Two years later, in 1890, the beneficiary branch, providing insurance protection for the clerks, was added.

The legislative branch today consists of national offices in the American Federation of Labor building in Washington, D. C., the association being an affiliate of the A. F. of L. The object of the legislative branch is to handle all complaints of members and work with the federal postal department. It is recognized by the government as the only group representative of the railway mail clerks.

The association works under the second assistant postmaster general, who has charge of all mail in transit. He is at present Harlee Branch, former Atlanta newspaperman.

Forming the national staff at Washington are the president on full time, the vice president on part time and the industrial secretary.

Have Beneficiary Branch

The beneficiary branch of the association is chartered under the laws of New Hampshire and has headquarters at Portsmouth with the secretary-treasurer of the national association in charge. The beneficiary branch was organized to protect the mail clerks who then worked in wooden railroad cars and suffered tremendous casualities as a result of wrecks which today would leave them uninjured.

Mr. Burris said the payments of the association to its members now total $20,000 monthly. With each membership a $4,000 accidental death benefit is provided and also a benefit of $3.50 a day for time lost from work by reason of injury.

Nowadays, in contrast to the days of wooden cars, most of the payments are for injuries incurred in the home.

The Fifth division is one of 15 in the country. Each division of the association coincides with the 15 geographical districts into which the postal department has divided the nation.

The national association's supreme governing body is the national convention, held every two years, and scheduled next for Philadelphia on Oct. 18. In between conventions of the business of the association is operated by the national executive committee, comprised of the national officer and each of the presidents of the 15 divisions.

The association has won many friends for itself by its generosity toward its employer, the federal government, Mr. Burris said. At the last national convention, for example, a $25,000 trust fund was set up, the income from it to go to the widow of the late Clyde M. Kelly of Pennsylvania, an outstanding patron of the association during his years on the postal affairs committee of the house. A similar fund has been created for the widow of Carl Van Dyke of Minnesota, also, chairman of the house postal affairs committee.

John N. Garner's Vacation.

John N. Garner, vice president of the United States, has started an extended vacation by leaving Washington in the midst of a legislative session. There are peculiar and alarming things about the vice president's departure.

Vacations are not in his line. In Washington, the vacation theory is being scouted. Mr. Garner is not known to be in ill health, or even tired.

He is known, however, to be in sharp disagreement with President Roosevelt on certain matters of policy, notably economy.

His absence from the capital during the windup of a legislative session will be an important one. Mr. Garner is an excellent strategist. He has a strong personal following. He is now, as he was in 1932 and again in 1936, the conservative balance in the administration.

He is one of the two men whom millions of American citizens voted for in the two national elections which placed the Democratic party in control of the government and kept it there.

As the significance of his departure from Washington penetrates national consciousness, Mr. Garner's so-called vacation may become the most important political event of the year.

Where's the Minority Report?

Just as the supreme court's minority opinions frequently furnish the means of understanding the majority's ruling, so does it seem that the senate judiciary committee's minority report on the administration's court bill might be an enlightening document.

The committee's majority report, powerful and vigorous, is little more than a concise statement of the familiar argument against the bill. It is, in effect, a final reminder to the administration that its proposal was rejected by the committee because that particular group of senators detected in it an attempt to do an intolerable thing by indirection.

This phase of the controversy—President Roosevelt's hidden attack on an independent branch of the government—has not been a pleasant thing to talk about. It is not a pleasant subject now, but a vital one, nevertheless, because on it is balanced, for the time being, the future prestige of Mr. Roosevelt.

A minority report, explaining clearly why certain senators believe the court bill was worthy of presentation and still deserves their support, would be a most interesting document to read at this time when the bill's original sponsors, themselves, no longer are standing by their guns.

Unanswered Question Dept.

The "inner voice" which the Rev. R. Anderson Jardine says impelled him to resign the position of vicar of St. Paul's church, Darlington, is something which many men hear, not always heeding it so promptly, of course.

The Rev. Jardine—it's a hard name to remember—is the Church of England vicar who unexpectedly showed up in France just in time to perform the religious ceremony for the Duke of Windsor and his lady. He garnered quite a bit of publicity out of it.

That may not be the reason he plans to come to the United States on a preaching and lecturing tour. It may not even be the reason he has resigned. But there does seem to be a possible connection.

If only it were known what he intends to talk about, everything would be cleared up. But that likely will be an unanswered question, until the curious have enjoyed their inalienable right of finding out, perhaps at a small fee per head.

Bestowed.

Most of the honorary degrees have been bestowed, and the gentle rain of honors is over, for another season.

Do undergraduate and graduate students who have won their degrees a credit at a time resent the ease with which successful men garner them each June, without ever cracking a book?

Probably not. For here is the significant thing about honorary degrees. Relatively few of them are planted in barren soil. They fall with convincing regularity on men who amount to something, which is proper.

They produce, with the same convincing regularity, monetary and moral support for the institutions which distribute them. That does not include the excellent commencement addresses which their grateful recipients deliver in partial repayment.

The value of those thoughtful, and at least flowery, speeches alone must more than cover the overhead for this American custom. No one gets anything worthwhile for nothing, not even the right to be called "doctor."

Mrs. Roosevelt and Income Tax

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1937, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, June 16—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt discussed with the newspaper correspondents a day or so ago her income tax returns, and said:

"On every penny of income I have received, I've paid my full tax."

Unfortunately, no other taxpayers enjoy the advantage which Mrs. Roosevelt has, for other taxpayers must not only pay taxes on every penny they receive, but on every penn the earn.

Mrs. Roosevelt has told the public that all of the income she earns by speaking over the radio goes to charity. Early in 1933, the question of taxes came up and a contract was entered into with an agent by which Mrs. Roosevelt agreed to speak over the radio for a certain fee for each broadcast and the checks for the services she rendered were to be made out directly to the charities she designated.

Now, under the rulings of the bureau of internal revenue, taxes have to be paid not only on actual money received, but on what is known as a "constructive receipt." As for the assignment of income to third parties, the official ruling of the bureau is as follows.

Bureau Ruling

"Cases in which one person contracts to perform services for a second person, and it is agreed that the remuneration therefor shall be paid to a third party, the receipt of the third party must be held to be a constructive receipt by the person performing the services.

"Income, whether it is derived from labor, from the use of capital, or from the sale of capital assets is in each case income, and the same rules with regard to constructive receipt apply in all cases.

"The ruling as above set forth represents the position which this office has consistently held."

Undoubtedly, Mrs. Roosevelt has interpreted the law as it ought to be and most people will concur in her view that, if she doesn't actually receive the money, she ought not to pay taxes upon it. But the rules of the internal revenue bureau are the law today and other taxpayers who attempt to assign their income to a third party and thus have it excluded from their own gross income would probably come into collision with the internal revenue bureau.

The fact that the taxpayer does not actually possess the money for a single instant does not seem to have altered the view which the court have held of such cases. Thus, the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, the great liberal, speaking on behalf of a unanimous supreme court of the United States dealt with this aspect of the matter in a certain case several years ago when he said in a formal opinion:

"There is no doubt that the statute could tax salaries to those who earned them and provide that the tax could not be escaped by anticipatory arrangements and contracts however skillfully devised to prevent the salary when paid from vesting even for a second in the man who earned it.

"That seems to us to be the import of the statute before us and we think that no distinction can be taken according to the motives leading to the arrangements by which the fruits are attributed to a different tree from that on which they grew."

Gives Large Sums

Mrs. Roosevelt is lucky that she can assign checks to charity amounting to so large a part of the income from the services she renders and avoid taxation herself. In one year, she is estimated to have earned $90,000 for charities. Any other individual would be in hot water if he diverted so large a part of his income to charity. The law allows a 15 per cent deduction for charity. In other words, out of the $90,000 earned by Mrs. Roosevelt, for example, she could deduct about a little less than one-sixth as a charity deduction, and, on the balance, namely about $76,500, she would have to pay a personal tax, and then from whatever she had left after the payment of a tax she could give as much to charity as she desired.

What Mrs. Roosevelt may not have discovered as yet is that the government of the United States assumes the right to do its own charity-giving and that the taxpayer is gradually losing that privilege because of the large sums taken in taxes. Only 15 per cent is the allowable deduction now for charity. If the case of Mrs. Roosevelt serves to emphasize that a taxpayer ought to be able to escape taxes if he gives all his income to charity, every charitable institution, university, hospital, and community chest in the country would rejoice. Perhaps Mrs. Roosevelt's interpretation of the law will lead to an amendment by the bureau of internal revenue of the rules that apply to other taxpayers who do not enjoy the prestige and prominence in official life that is enjoyed by a member of the President's own family.

American Integrity

BY PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, June 16—The French are a polite people but when Ambassador Bonnet says in effect that before war debt negotiations can be undertaken the United States must establish its integrity, he is using very raw words.

The United States has babied France along on this war debt business almost from the beginning. When the debts were refunded in 1925, France's rate of interest was cut sharply below what the treasury was then paying on the money it had raised by liberty loans to pass on to France.

That's real integrity. It is almost charity. Moreover, France got off with a debt settlement far easier than was arranged for Great Britain.

Easy Terms

Now how about France's integrity? That nation buckled under on the debt payments six years ago. There were explanations at the time as to why France could not keep on paying, and there have been explanations every six months since when the semi-annual payments came due.

Nevertheless, Mr. Bonnet, only a few months established here as ambassador, stated in an interview in New Orleans that he was ready to undertake negotiations for settlement of the debt. But first, he said, "each country must be convinced of the basic integrity of the other."

France, it would seem, is not convinced of the "basic integrity" of the United States.

At the time of the 1925 debt refunding, France owed the United States $3,401,000,000 principal and $685,000,000 interest. The debt bore about five per cent interest after the war, the rate set to match that paid on the last American liberty loan.

Then France was given 62 years in which to pay. At five per cent the debt would have amounted to more than nine billion dollars. Instead of charging such a rate the United States agreed to no interest at all for five years—until 1930. Then would come 10 years at one per cent, 10 years at 2 per cent, 8 years at 2¾ per cent, 7 years at 3 per cent, and 22 years at 3½ per cent. The total bill would be $6,847,674,104.

Cocky Attitude

England, owing $4,600,000,000—a half billion more than France—was asked to pay three per cent from the beginning and 3½ per cent after 1932. The total bill then would be $11,105,000,000—about 60 per cent more than France's.

Nobody doubts that France has been hard pressed with expense and trouble, and her neighbors are not the most orderly. But in spite of these good grounds for expecting sympathy, it sounds amply cocky for France to walk up to her banker and ask about his integrity before she agrees to pay anything on long overdue notes.

Wreckers.

Latest execution news from Russia tells of 20 persons convicted of train wrecking. Previously, 66 persons had been executed for the same offense.

That's a lot of train wreckers, in any language. Coming right on top of a succession of executions in Russia for this and that, it deepens the impression that a lot of blood-letting is going on in the Soviet states these days.

On the minds of all persons who have watched the dictatorship method at work, that impression is connected closely with another one.

When a dictatorship plunges into a blood bath, the charge isn't important. Only the execution matters. Trotskyists, train wreckers, saboteurs—they're all guilty of the same offense, punishable by death under dictatorship. That's the offense of being displeasing to the man, or men, on horseback from whom the firing squad takes orders.

Deadly Sea Craft

BY ARTHUR H. SUVERKRUP
United Press Staff Correspondent

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 16—Submarines, capable of diving to a depth of 600 feet with safety—far deeper than any other such craft ever constructed—have given the U. S. Navy the most deadly undersea fighters in the world it is believed here.

A newly developed, highly resistant metal makes possible the greater diving depth of the new craft, and at the same time allows construction of submarines considerably smaller in actual size but decidedly more effective.

These facts were revealed here when the U. S. S. Tarpon, newest member of the navy's submarine force docked here, to join the flotilla of grim-looking, ebony hued fighters.

Heretofore no submarine has been capable of descending to a depth of much more than 300 or 400 feet with safety. Although the Tarpon and sister ships, now under construction, or undergoing final tests, never have descended to a 600-foot depth officers and men aboard the craft are confident they could withstand such a dive "if necessity required."

Quarter Inch Hulls

The newly developed metal, with its greater tensile strength and higher degree of durability, has made it possible to construct the new fleet-type submarines with a hull only one quarter of an inch thick compared to two inches necessary with former types steel, it was said.

Although the 300-foot length is considerably less than that of the U. S. S. Nautilus, which boasts of outstanding performance records, the U. S. S. Tarpon is even more efficient than the larger craft, and carries a considerably smaller crew.

A crew of 50 men and five officers operate the Tarpon. Numerous newly developed automatic controls make the reduction in personnel possible, according to Lieut. J. O'Shea, engineering officer of the submarine. Details of the new metal as well as the controls are closely guarded navy secrets.

Smaller size has not made the Tarpon prey to heavy seas, and "she's as stable as an ocean liner," Lieut. O'Shea said, in commenting of the cruising ability of the craft, which recently completed the long voyage from the east coast alone.

Six other submarines, of the Tarpon class, now are nearing completion—the Perch, Plunger, Pickerel, Pompano, Pollack and Permit. Another six will be completed during the fiscal year starting July 1—the Salmon, Seal, Skipjack, Snapper, Stingray and Sturgeon.

Silent on Reported Defects.

Officers aboard the Tarpon refused to discuss reports carried in the Army and Navy Register, a semi-official publication, which told of mechanical defects uncovered in the generators of the main propelling plant of their vessel, and three sister subs, the Shark, Porpoise and Pike.

It was said discovery of these defects during shakedown cruises and trial runs would keep the new submarines on a reduced operating status until they are overcome.

The submarine Cachalot and Cuttlefish now are in the Mare Island Navy Yard, undergoing overhauling prior to being re-engined during June.

During the fiscal year 1938 the submarine force of the navy will be increased to 48 undersea fighters, it was said, the majority of which are comparatively new, modern, and among the most powerful craft of their type in the world.

Today in Ohio History

BY R. C. HALL
Written for The Associated Press

For days at a time, during the operation of the federal army in northern Georgia in 1864, there was almost continuous fighting or maneuvering. A number of high spots stand out, however, deserving the name of major battles. In many of these Ohio commanders and Ohio troops played leading roles.

One of these, the Battle of Lost Mountain, fought June 16, was an important link in the chain Gen. Sherman was drawing about Atlanta.

Congress On "Slow-Down" Strike

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 16 — The talk about an adjournment date for congress is meaningless.

Only one man could have a slight notion when it will be, and he has not made up his mind. It is his program and he will have to decide how much of it is to be trimmed. For the present, he says he is in no hurry.

Neither is congress. Both houses are piddling. The senate met only two days last week, although a dozen major bills are pending there, in committee or on the floor. The house has been trying more seriously to handle its business, but the representatives are obviously dawdling on the farm bill and some others.

Behind this unusual situation is the not very great secret that congress does not like the program. It is not exactly in revolt, but it is just not very much interested. There is, of course, a full-fledged senatorial revolt on against court packing, and this has undoubtedly cused the President to withhold the whip. On the few recent occasions when he has attempted to use it mildly backstage, it has failed to bring results.

Thus, the President is waiting out congress and congress is waiting out the President.

The effect is about the same as that of a "slow-down" strike, which has been tried in some factories by labor groups. The outcome is equally uncertain.

Senate Cool

The sugary supreme court compromise (two additional judges, with each judicial district to be represented eventually on the court) has caught on well inside the house, but not at all in the senate.

The senators are so much aroused, they will not take anything in the nature of a compromise which contains any packing of the court. They are likely to remain that way, because they still have control of the situation.

Progress which has been made in the house toward patronage-coating of the President's plan, therefore, seems to be of little moment.

Prospects for the legislation now seem to be just the same as in the beginning. The court bill is likely to be pending when the senate adjourns.

Corcoran Caught

Messrs. Corcoran and Cohen, the unofficial attorneys general, are due for a senatorial thrashing, and not in the woodshed.

Legislators have been trying to get something worth using against those two fellows for three years or more, but Mr. R.'s urchins have always been too smart. They have never even admitted the authorship of any of the dozen or more major reform measures which they have written. Mr. Cohen maintains himself as a ghost-like figure within the safe confines of the PWA. Mr. Corcoran is the congressional wire-puller. He got hold of a hot wire only once, in dealing with that Maine congressman, but that developed into a question of who said what and nothing ever came of it.

It is said neither ghost has ever put anything in writing except over the signature of some one else.

However, Mr. Corcoran must have become overconfident lately, as two senators say they are getting ready to produce two letters from him which may, at last, officially define his activities. These they say, will be used in senate debate on the court program the first time any one mentions Mr Corcoran's name.

Then there is also the matter of a little personal inside debate between Corcoran and Senator Minton of Indiana a couple of weeks ago. Senators in earshot thought they heard Minton threaten to vote against the court program if Corcoran did not let up on him, or something somewhat similar.

West Changes Jobs

These developments have destroyed the effectiveness of Mr. Corcoran as a compromise missionary on the court plan in the senate. He is last reported to have withdrawn to his well-guarded study in the RFC.

His only recent appearance at the hill was at the gathering in honor of departing Vice President Garner, the day before Garner left. A sympathetic friend remarked that Corcoran and his twin, Cohen, seem to be getting the boot with systematic regularity here lately. Corcoran replied:

"Have you ever seen one of those revolving shoe wheels in a shoe manufacturing plant? I feel like I have had one of those right behind me for six months."

Another legislative missionary of the White House has veered to other pursuits lately. Charles West, who fixed everything legislative up to, but not including, the court packing bill, has been attending cabinet meetings as interior secretary. He has been replacing Mr. Ickes, who appears to be somewhat more seriously ill than has been announced. While there is no danger in his condition, he is likely to be out for a long time.

With Garner gone, Corcoran in retirement and West out, Mr. Roosevelt now has no legislative liaison men.

A Woman of Wit and Charm

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 16.—Constance Collier has for her charm, biting wit and often outrageous upsetting of the conventions become the Mrs. Pat Campbell on this side of the Atlantic. Any tea party that can entice her to the ringside is made. It will likely wind up with a whoop.

Like Mrs. Campbell, too, she goes nowhere without some fantastic looking dog. Sometimes a Peke, other times a Sealyham or maybe a mastiff. I believe it was Noel Coward who said of one of her newest canines that it smelt like a drain.

Miss Collier, English born, has divided her time between New York and London and is equally well known on both sides, but it is America, many think she prefers. Large of stature, she is at first meeting, shy, shrinking, but if she takes to you and turns on her charm you are her slave from then on!

Many think her autobiography a few years ago is one of the most revealing written by a performer. In New York she makes the Algonquin her base, but at any moment is likely to go flying off to Hollywood, where she is in frequent demand for her character cameos.

The new types of satiny night club and snack bar so glorified by the Louis Sobols and Ed Sullivans have proved acceptable spring boards from which society career girls may take off in their ambitions to act. Among the successful are Eve Symington, Peggy Lynch, Adelaide Moffett, Julie Gilespie and several others whose names escape me. It might seem that most of them were depending on a Four Hundred background to put them over, but I have seen nearly all and there's not one who could not hold the spot with her own ability.

I believe some of the most lasting impressions I have of crack entertainment value have come out of the floosy cafes. They are flushing out more real talent than the stage and movies, and had vaudeville displayed the same acumen in new finds it would not be where it is today—in the ash can. I think especially of the mimic, Shiela Barrett, the amazing blind pianist, Alex Templeton, the ventriloquist, Edgar Bergen, Fray and Braggiotti the versatile twin pianists, Eddie Garr, the impersonator, and of course, Ruby Keeler, George Raft, Bing Crosby, and probably 25 other stellar names came out of the night masques.

Whenever I see the term "boundless energy"—as I did a moment ago—I think of Will Rogers. His wife Betty once told me she had never known him to appear fatigued or to admit he was tired. From the moment he arose in the morning—and he liked 6 a. m. as a rising hour—he was in constant fidget. He liked to read newspapers and morning mail walking up and down. If he had to sit in a chair he was in perpetual squirm, tearing up bits of papers or ruffing back his hair and crossing and re-crossing his legs. His furious chewing of gum was another indication of the strange restlessness, his jaws often in constant motion from the time he got up until he retired. He could think best in action and that was why he always thought his better monologues were those that he delivered while twirling the lariat. After his first airplane flight he told me that forever afterward riding on something as slow as an express train was absolute torture.

Etude: Now and then some thing comes over most of us. When it comes over me I pop into a florist shop and come out adorned with a bright lapel flower. I had one of my spells this morning and as I emerged a romantic ash cart driver with spring in his heart and a discarded posey tucked behind his ear, called out with a grin: "You and me, buddy."

St. Jo To Honor Eugene Field

Missouri City Plans Tribute to Famed "Son."

By International News Service

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 16—[illegible] city he immortalized in [illegible] poem—"Lover's Lane, Saint Jo"—today planned to erect a memorial to poet Eugene Field, its adopted son.

A national campaign for [illegible] memorial undertaken by the Women's Press club here gained sponsorship throughout the country wherever there were former residents of "St. Jo" or lovers of Field's simple but beauteous works.

The drive has not yet opened officially but once the word leaked out of this mid-western city, supporters rallied to the cause.

A national committee, composed of some of the outstanding figures of the country, has already been proposed and it will be this committee which will handle the formal campaign to open in the fall.

Prominent Committee Members

The proposed national committee consists of five former St. Joseph residents, namely: Gen. Malin H. Craig, chief of staff, United States army, chairman; Merrill E. Otis, United States district judge; Walter W. Head, Boy Scouts of America; Harold B. Hall, of the New York Times and Walter S. McLucas, president of the National Bank of Detroit.

A special committee of newspaper columnists has also been suggested, its membership consisting of O. O. McIntyre, chairman; Walter Winchell; H. L. Mencken; Dorothy Thompson and Boake Carter.

Miss Anna Rutt, president of the Women's Press club, will spend the summer months selecting the memorial site, the memorial itself and arranging proper ceremonies.

Simple Statue Planned

It is believed that a simple, graceful statue, a memorial not only to Field but to his simple, metrical, graceful poetry as well, will be erected somewhere along the now famed "Lover's Lane" here. Mayor Edward Bowes will be requested to organize a chorus to participate in the ceremonies. It would be a fitting touch if "Lover's Lane Saint Jo" could be set to music for the chorus.

Memorials to the journalist, poet and humor sketch writer have already been erected in St. Louis where he was born Sept. 3, 1850; Denver and Chicago, where he died Nov. 4, 1895.

Although Field was not a native of St. Joseph and only lived here a short period of time, the city was singularly important in his life, for it was here that he met and won, his bride, Miss Julia Comstock.

Never Apt Pupil

Field, raised by relatives in New England after his mother's death, was never a very apt pupil at school this led him to change schools a good deal. While at the Univer-of Missouri (after leaving Williams and Knox colleges) he became very chummy with Edgar V. Comstock, his future brother-in-law who invited him to the Comstock home.

The university's most incorrigible wag and most average student thrilled Comstock's five sisters but it was Julia, youngest and fairest of the quintet, who thrilled the young man destined to become a world famous poet.

Immortal Love Poem

The months that followed were a trying ordeal for Field. He finally went to London where he wrote his masterpiece while dreaming of the minutes spent under the lane's shady bows with Julia.

"Saint Jo, Buchanan county,
Is leagues and leagues away;
And I sit in the gloom of this rented room,
And pine to be there today.

Yes, with the London fog around me
And the bustling to and fro
I am fretting to be across the sea
In Lover's Lane, Saint Jo."

After his return to the United States, Field pleaded so ardently with the elder Comstock that Julia became Mrs. Field at 16 on Sept. 16, 1873.

They spent their honeymoon in the east but returned to St. Joseph in 1873 for a year, during which time he was city editor on the "Gazette." This launched him on an outstanding journalistic career.

Cod Liver Oil.

AT THIS time of the year I receive letters asking about cod liver oil. Most mothers want to know whether it is necessary to continue the oil during the summer months.

Since cod liver oil is given as a substitute for sunlight, it is usually the practice to omit taking the oil during the summer months. But this is advised only if the child is assured of an abundance of fresh air and sunlight. For the very young infant who is still confined to the crib and carriage, it is well to continue the cod liver oil during the summer.

For the older child who gets about and is permitted to play in a sun suit it is different. He receives an abundant supply of direct sunlight and the use of the oil may be discontinued. Of course, in certain forms of vitamin deficiency diseases, it is best to continue the administration of cod liver oil throughout the year.

This is particularly true if the child is a victim of rickets. As no doubt you know, rickets is a vitamin deficiency disease. It results from a lack of vitamin D in the body. This vitamin is abundantly found in cod liver oil and that is the chief reason for its use.

I can not overstate its value in the diet of every infant and growing child. Being rich in vitamin D, it helps the normal growth of sturdy bones and teeth. In addition, it aids the body to utilize certain minerals, such as lime and phosphorus.

If the use of cod liver oil is started at an early age the child soon acquires a taste for it, being quite unaware of its unpleasant flavor. Fortunately, it no longer has the marked odor and disagreeable taste so characteristic of the oil used years ago. In fact, as now prepared, it is a highly palatable tonic. If necessary, it can be flavored, thus covering up the bad taste.

Do not be misled into the belief that cod liver oil may upset the digestion of the child. Quite the contrary is the fact with most children. It should be given between meals; when given this way it rarely disturbs the digestion. If used during the summer months, the dosage should be less than that given during the winter.

Substitutes for cod liver oil may be used. For example, it is now possible to obtain the same beneficial effects of cod liver oil by taking "viosterol." This is an irradiated vegetable oil unusually rich in vitamin D. It is given in drop doses and may be added to the milk or food. The exact dose should be determine by the physician.

MAKE THE TEN DAY BREAD TEST

Eat Honey Krushed Wheat Bread at Every Meal and Feel Better.

People who suffer from constipation and clogged bowels are urged by the bakers of Honey Krushed Wheat Bread to try the new loaf for just ten days. Developed by a practical baker who worked with food experts in the laboratory of a great American University it has helped thousands of people to regain normal bowel conditions. Containing pure honey and crushed whole wheat kernels it provides the necessary roughage for easy elimination.

Wherever Honey Krushed Wheat Bread has been served regularly, even for so short a period as ten days, consumers report that poor functioning of the bowels has been greatly relieved and in many cases entirely eliminated. It not only is tender and delicious, pleasing in appearance and appetizing of flavor, but the actual benefits are remarkable.

The honey blended in with the other ingredients in Honey Krushed Wheat Bread is the reason why it tastes so good. No other sweet can be like honey. It is recognized by experts on diet that no other natural sweet can give such quick energy to the body as this product of the bee. There is no sugar used in Honey Krushed Wheat Bread because many persons find it impossible to digest sugar properly.

More families in this territory will serve Honey Krushed Wheat Bread than any other kind tonight. The reason why so many mothers have started to serve the new bread is that they know it creates abounding energy in children and keeps them free from constipation.

Beware of Imitations

Both as to name and product. Honey Krushed Wheat Bread (note the spelling K-r-u-s-h-e-d) is the registered name and the only name authorized for bread made under the original, scientific formula and process developed for our use.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

By Esther Tyler

(Copyright, 1933, Esther Tyler)

CHAPTER FIFTY-THREE.

Aunt Martha's Machinations.

I SUPPOSE Martha thought she had done away with all possibility of Mike's hearing about his father. She handed Higgins the gun and went quickly back to bed. Then Higgins made sure that he could do nothing for Jude. He cleaned and reloaded the gun and decided to talk to me before he said anything to anybody else.

As for me, my situation got immeasurably worse from the moment I walked into the kitchen. I felt sure that either Martha or Norman had done it, but I had not one shred of proof—and didn't learn until Higgins spoke to me yesterday. Martha staged a frightened elderly woman act. I could get nowhere with her. I did nothing because we were as much on our guard as we could be and I wanted to avert panic.

How the dickens Norman managed to elude us when we searched the grounds in broad daylight, I don't know. He may have let himself into the house more than once with that key. I don't think there's any doubt that he was the murderer who dealt with Cook and Andie. That handkerchief he said on Annie was yours, as a matter of fact, Mike. He'd been taking some of your clothes. Higgins was the prowler in the hall. He told me so. But poor Norman must have ransacked Martha's room and mutilated the cat in just the sort of frenzy the doctors had predicted.

"I'm sure that you and William suffered at his hands, Jim. Then I imagine, he let himself into Jude's room with his key and concealed himself in that horrible fashion. Martha must have known that he was there. I suppose she really thought that he was better dead than confined. At any rate, the minute I realized that he was gone, I could think of only one thing—the spot on the bluff where his mother died and where Martha used to brood for hours as a girl. In her mind she had made a martyr of her mother. Something told me that she intended to do the same with her brother. I knew what we would find at the foot of that cliff before I had taken a single step.

"You see, I still hadn't talked to Higgins. I knew that we were at the mercies of a homicidal maniac, but I had not one shred of proof and my chances of being believed were pretty slender. I put her to bed and I thought she was sleeping when I left her. Apparently she wasn't. Higgins was on the verge of telling you the whole story, Jim, when he saw her standing outside the window in my oilskins—listening. She frightened him half out of his wits. What she was doing out there I don't know. Looking at the scene of Norman's death possibly. At any rate from then on she began to distrust Higgins. After you went looking for Mike, Jim, he let her in. And she threatened him, poor old boy! He was terrified. He got her to her room and went in search of me.

"My Alibi Was Rotten."

"Meanwhile you got the wacky notion that you were insane, Mike, and I did the hardest thing I've ever done in my life. I went to Higgins' room, got his revolver, and walked straight down the hall to Martha's door. In view of Higgins' story she must have just left the oilskins in my room and started to undress. She was at the dressing-table and as she turned toward me, I shot her. Unfortunately, my aim was rotten. Higgins had caught sight of me in the servants hall. As I turned around he was right at my elbow. He never said a word. Took the gun out of my hand, wiped it clean with his handkerchief, and shoved me to the head of the stairs. To all intents and purposes we were coming up them as you rushed down the hall, Mike. Higgins had the alibi right on the tip of his tongue.

"When I heard that I had failed, I knew that I had endangered your lives more than ever. Martha knew who had shot her, although I don't think she actually saw me. She knew and she laid her plans accordingly.

"I was with her for some time, you may remember. She pretended to be asleep, but I knew that she wasn't. She was my sister—practically my mother—and—and a grand girl. God! How I pitied her! But we sat there within two feet of each other and planned each other's death. I waited until she asked for another sleeping powder. I went into the bathroom to fix it, where she could not possibly see me, and I put a half a box of the damned powders into her glass.

"But she was ahead of me. I came back to find her crying. It wasn't as if her state of mind had been her fault. Seeing her that way—got me. I tried to comfort her, but she wouldn't listen for a long time. Then something appeared to snap in her and she poured out a story. She said that she had lured you into the old loft, Mike, and shot you. Then, frightened, she had put you inside one of the cedar chests and left you there—alive.

"If I had stopped to think, I would have known that she was lying. She hadn't been out of my sight since you had left the room. But she knew me well enough to know that I wouldn't stop. That loft was used as a sort of storage room in Grandfather's time. I had forgotten its existence. I tore up to it, dragging her with me. And when I got to the place where she wanted me, she simply crowned me with something. The rest of that—let's not talk about."

The Skipper's pauses were becoming longer and more difficult, but she went on.

"I think Higgins suspected her, but the place had never been used in his time. He didn't know how to get into it, and he knew that Martha was watching him. I heard someone tapping around down here trying to find the opening, and I imagine it was Higgins. Also, he probably wasn't sure of himself. Martha's nearly dying after she finally took the powders probably made him wonder whether I hadn't simply attempted to murder her a second time and then beat it to escape being caught.

"I heard him calling to me several times through the floor in his room. He apparently knew I was there, but thought I could answer him or come down if I wanted to. When Martha knew that I had been found—dead or alive—she knew that Higgins would talk. Poor old Higgins had been protecting her with his life. He even removed those letters that she planted in William's room. She begged the originals from me long ago and kept them all this time. Those letters were forgeries, of course. Higgins had saved her life, but now he was dangerous. And so — she killed him."

A Moral Somewhere

The Skipper stopped abruptly and the sudden silence was painful. Michael sat with his head in his hands, motionless. Gay's subdued face was turned toward him, and her eyes were anxious. But the Skipper sat straight and stiff between them, her face a mask and her eyes straight ahead. Finally Michael raised his head.

"Is that all?" he said in a muffled voice.

The Skipper's smile was twisted. "That's all. If you like, Jim, you can send Jack Bilnshop out here to me. I suppose it's poetic justice that I should be the person to tell him."

Blindly I groped for words, found none, and choked out, "I'm telling him."

Gay got suddenly to her feet, dropped one swift kiss on the top of the Skipper's head, and went noiselessly from the room. I wanted to follow her, but my feet seemed riveted to the spot.

"I suppose," the Skipper's voice went on, "there's a moral somewhere in this, although at the moment it eludes me. Something about the wages of sin, no doubt. Only, Mickie, I—" Her voice caught and stopped. One instant there was silence; the next the room was filled with dry, hard sobbing. Michael crashed to his knees.

I slipped through the game room and out the side entrance to the lawn, barely feeling the sting of the cold, salt air. I needed a coat, but not badly enough to go back for one. The foot of the drive confronted me before I was really aware that I was walking. Pausing, I stared out across the water toward the mainland. A motor dory was headed straight for the spot where I stood. In another minute the leathery old face of Andie Darrel was staring up at me from under his sou'wester.

"Hi there!" he trumpeted nasally.

THE END.

She refers to something like 3-amino-pythol-hydrazine. This is the newest cold-light chemical. Add it to a glass of water and you can read a printed page by the heatless, firefly glow from the water.

The chemical is expensive, $50 a pound, and anyhow it not efficient enough to enable the plumber to pipe cold light into your home. But it shows what may be coming sooner than expected. The Franklin Institute's science lecturer, Richard V. Thayer and R. H. Bruce, are demonstrating it this year in a hundred cities.

It is all light, no heat. They make it flame six inches high and stuff the flames into their pockets without scorching the cloth.

Bill, Hank Concerned Over the Whereabouts of Two Girls

SO GREAT was my reluctance to bring disappointment to Dicky's two older nephews that I waited for several seconds before reporting to their queries, trying to find some way of softening the negative answer which was all I had to give them.

"I don't think they've planned to come up here," I told them. Then I weakened at the sight of their unconsciously dolorous faces, and added mendaciously: "But they might change their minds. You know Aunt Lillian is famous for doing things on the spur of the moment."

"Yes, I know she is," Bill said, his face brightening. Hank struck in with apparent carelessness.

"Where are they now, visiting West Point and New Haven?"

He laughed loudly at his own jest, while Bill, more adult in his viewpoint, scowled at him.

"I don't think they're visiting anywhere," I said. "Aunt Lillian, Uncle Harry and Marion have been making a tour of Quebec and New Brunswick. Carolyn joined them a week ago, for the last part of the tour, because it was lonely for her at home without her brother."

They were suddenly galvanized into interest.

Ron Is Working

"Why, where is old Ron?" Hank asked with studied carelessness, and what he patently considered a man-of-the-world air.

"He's working," I answered. "He and Bob are athletic coaches at two big camps. Fortunately, they are near enough together so they can see a good deal of each other."

"I though old Brixton and Cromwell were lined with dough," Hank commented. "What do those boys want to work for?"

"Why does any sensible boy want to work if he can get the chance?" Bill asked sensibly. "For experience and extra dough, of course."

Hank did not reply. He had wrapped himself in thought, and the result was soon apparent.

"Where are those camps?" he asked.

"In Michigan," I answered promptly.

"When do they close—long before college opens?"

"I really don't know," I said truthfully. "I imagine about two weeks before classes begin at New Haven."

Which Route Home?

"That'll give 'em plenty of time to get back east before the folks get home," Hank said thoughtfully. "You don't know which way the Underwoods are coming home, do you—through New England or New York?"

What difference does it make to you?" Bill exploded. "They won't be stopping off to see us, even if they should drive right down this road—which they probably won't. And why should we want to butt into the picture? Those girls think we're just out of kindergarten, anyway."

"That's nonsense, Bill, and you know it," I said sharply. "Both Marion and Carolyn enjoy being with you when you're at the farm. And, who knows? They may drive home this way. If they do, you may be very sure they'll stop off at the camp, to see Aunt Katherine and the children, whether I'm here or not. They don't know you're here, and it will be a pleasant surprise for them to see you. And you ought to be able to give them a very good time if they do come down. You'll be able to take them fishing, boating and even motoring if you're careful with the car."

"Gee, Aunt Madge, you're good to us!" Bill said fervently, and I resolved that if it were a possible thing, I would make this particular boyish dream come true.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

CHAPTER ONE.
Face To Face With A Firebug.

KAY CRANDON pulled her mount in for a breathing spell, as she topped the steep rise to the eastern ridge of the Bitter Root mountains. Below her, through the scant growth of pine and tamarack that timbered the ridge, she could see the glistening water of a lake, and beyond, the sharp, magnificent peaks of the Cabinet range, that rose precipitously from the valley floor.

The breathless stillness of the warm September afternoon was unbroken, save for the blowing of Kay's roan horse, and the creaking of saddle leather, as she shifted his weight and turned an inquiring head toward his mistress.

Kay laughed softly, as she slipped off her broad-brimmed hat and fanned herself with it.

"Don't worry, Flicker. I promise we'll get home in time for supper."

She leaned forward to pat his neck, and the sunlight slanting through the pine branches gleamed on a mass of auburn curls that glinted back, as though celebrating their release from the strict confinement of the unbecoming hat band. Microscopic beads of perspiration stood on Kay's forehead, and she dropped the reins over her pommel as she pulled out a handkerchief and wiped them off.

"No use hurrying, Flicks," she sighed as her mount again turned restively. "If it's hot as it is up here, it will be even hotter in the valley."

Kay paused a moment, and then added half aloud and half to herself:

"Kate is having supper at the Flying Six, and with Aunt Kate says there's no special reason to get back early. I may as well prove my point, and give us both a bit of a rest."

Suiting the action to the words, Kay dismounted, and flinging Flicker's reins over his head, left him on the trail, as she made her way along a rocky ledge that led to a projecting cliff. From here a magnificent panorama of the surrounding country could be seen.

Stretching out at full length, with her elbows propped on the smooth granite, and her chin resting on her hands, Kay gave a long sigh of satisfaction. This was one of her favorite spots, and it was more than a month now since she had been here.

Her yellow brown eyes half closed in the drowsy warmth of the sun that beat on her relaxed body, Kay thought back to the last strenuous month. Everything had seemed to happen at once, and the climax had been reached when Aunt Kate had fallen and broken her hip, and had to go to the hospital.

"If Dad were only here!" Sudden tears dimmed Kay's eyes as this thought, that was always uppermost in her mind, half unconsciously voiced itself, but she resolutely forced them back. There had been no time for tears in the last year, since the tragic death of her father, when Kay had decided to stick to the ranch, and make a home for her young sister, and her great aunt.

It had been no small undertaking for a girl of 19, but Kay had braved this first year, and come through, in spite of all predictions to the contrary. Now—

With a sudden exclamation, Kay brought her reminiscing to an abrupt halt, and sat up straight, leaning forward with tense muscles, as she gazed intently down the ridge.

"Throw out your gun!" Kay commanded. She steeled herself against sympathy for this man who looked honest and decent despite his action.

Several hundred feet below her, a man was piling up some brush and dried needles in a seemingly purposeful fashion against a dead tree that reared its russet height in sharp relief against the green of its neighbors. As though sensing observation, he paused suddenly and listened, glancing furtively over his shoulder. Then, evidently assuring himself that he had been mistaken, he went on with his strange task.

Her throat tight, and her eyes blazing with raging indignation, as the meaning of his peculiar actions flashed over her, Kay slipped off the rock, and back into the shadow of the pines. Pulling out her gun, she started a rapid and noiseless descent toward the spot that she had seen from above.

Her heart beat like a trip-hammer as she realized that she probably had spotted the firebug that the whole county had been looking for. During the last two months, a series of forest fires had broken out, and only the vigilance of the fire patrols had saved the region from disastrous losses. The conviction that the fires were of incendiary origin had gradually grown, although no one had been able to prove it.

Her indignation completely blotting out any thought of fear for herself, Kay slowed down and steadied her nerves with an iron grip as she noiselessly slipped from one tree trunk to another.

She could see the russet color of the dead pine now, and the outline of the pile of brush at its base. The crash of the dried branches as they were stacked up on the side of the pile away from her told her that she was in time. With her heart in her throat, she hurried forward.

She rounded the pile and pointed her gun at the stooped figure of the man, who was bent over, propping a long branch against the others.

Her clear "Throw 'em up!" now rang through the woods in no uncertain tones.

Whirling about, the man straightened and faced her, then slowly obeyed the command, his eyes fixed at first on the gleaming barrel of the gun that covered him, then lifting to meet Kay's stern gaze.

A strange feeling clutched Kay's heart at the man's expression. His face was gaunt and drawn, and there were great dark circles under the desperate eyes that met hers. She had never seen a look of such mingled misery and proud defiance. For the first time, a doubt as to whether her suspicion was right, all evidence to the contrary, flashed over her.

Kay's lifetime on the range had made her a keen judge of men, and something instinctively told her that this man wasn't bad. In spite of his desperate look, his eyes were honest, and his mouth was straight and decent, and yet—

She hardened herself against the unreasoning sympathy that stole over her, and steeled herself to play her part in bringing him to justice.

"You've Never Been Hungry"

"Throw out your gun!" she commanded.

The man's shoulders twitched into a shrug. "I haven't any." His voice reflected the despair of his general attitude, and in spite of her suspicion, Kay felt the ring of truth in it.

"You were about to set a forest fire," she accused.

The man made no attempt to deny it.

"What if I was?" he challenged harshly. "Why not?"

"Why not!" Kay echoed, her voice shrill with indignant surprise at such a question. The thought flashed over her that the man must be a lunatic, but she instantly dismissed it; there was nothing insane about the eyes that gazed at her with bitter intensity.

"Yes, why not? What harm would it be to burn off the timber on this ridge? There are plenty of men to fight it, and keep it from reaching any of the ranch houses. Plenty of men!" he repeated, with a wild, harsh laugh. "That's the only job a man can get these days — fire fighting."

At Kay's shocked look, he added fiercely: "You've never been hungry, have you? Or seen your mother and sister hungry? Why shouldn't I make a job for myself?"

A conversation Kay had overheard between two of the punchers, to the effect that the fires were being started by the desperate unemployed to give themselves jobs, flashed into her mind, as he blazed these questions at her.

"You mean to say," she faltered, "that you've been setting these fires because—"

"I haven't been setting them," he broke in. "Believe it or not, this is my first attempt. God, I couldn't even pull that off!"

With sudden reckless disregard of Kay's gun, he pulled his hands down over his face, then dropped them to his sides, and faced her with his burning black eyes.

"What are you going to do about it?"

Kay met his question with another.

"And you mean that your mother and sister are—are actually hungry?"

He gave a wild laugh. "Not they're not hungry right this minute; and they won't be for another couple of days. Do you want to know why? Because I stole some food for them! That's why!"

He straightened up and reiterated his defiant question.

"What are you going to do about it?"

For a long moment, the two confronted each other, and then Kay obeyed an uncontrollable impulse.

"This," she said, simply, and slipped her gun into her holster.

Kay's wits are tested, tomorrow, by the unexpected arrival of the fire patrol.

Wesley's No. 1 league softball team ran its unbroken string of victories to four last night with a 12 to 4 victory over the highly rated Forest Lawn aggregation. Wesley is the only club in the No. 1 circuit that boasts a perfect record with the completion last night of the fourth complete round of competition.

Epworth moved away from the bottom rung of the standings by shutting out Salem, 6 to 0, on the Uncapher avenue diamond. Epworth previously was in the loop cellar with a record of one victory in four starts, but with the win over Salem moved into fourth place, only two and one-half games behind the leaders.

Baptist Club Wins

The Trinity Baptist club handed the slugging Lee Streeters their second defeat of the season by an 8 to 1 count in the third No. 1 league contest. The Baptists hold an average of 500, having split in four games, while Lee Street, one of the two teams which does not have a postponed game to play, has won three of five starts.

Four of the No. 1 league clubs will be in action again tonight to play games which were previously postponed because of rain. Trinity Baptist is to meet Forest Lawn at Garfield and Wesley will clash with Salem on the Marion Steam Shovel diamond. One postponed No. 2 league contest, matching St. Mary and Christian teams will be played on the President field.

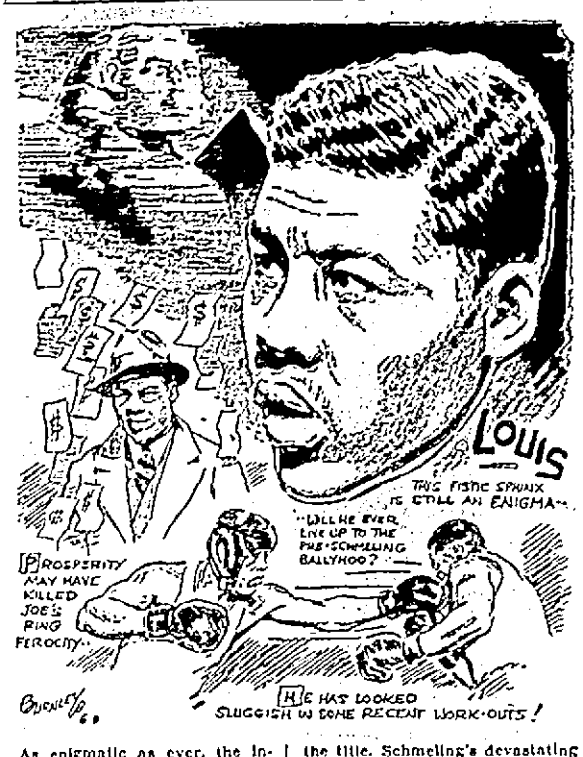
Joe Louis—A Fistic Sphinx



LOUIS
THIS FISTIC SPHINX IS STILL AN ENIGMA—
"WILL HE EVER LIVE UP TO THE PRE-SCHMELING BALLYHOO?
PROSPERITY MAY HAVE KILLED JOE'S RING FEROCITY—
HE HAS LOOKED SLUGGISH IN SOME RECENT WORK-OUTS!

As enigmatic as ever, the inscrutable Joe Louis is going through the training motions for the big chance of his fistic lifetime—a shot at the heavyweight championship.

To the sleepy-eyed sleep producer this Braddock bout is just another fight. Jolting Joe has been in rather poor condition for his last few bouts, and his handlers were so alarmed that they called off an exhibition tour after his miserable showing with Bob Pastor. It is squarely up to Jack Blackburn and the other Louis mentors to rouse the old fury in their well-fed, over-prosperous challenger.

Challengers should be flaming with ambition, and it looks as if the Brown Bomber is all too satisfied with his present wealth to worry greatly over winning the title. Schmeling's devastating right also did something to the Louis ambition. Since that fight, Joe has lost interest in boxing skill, and has become purely and simply a slugger. He can still punch with deadly effect, but his snake-like jab has gone with the wind, and all his recent foes have found him easy to hit.

A year ago this same Louis was being acclaimed as the greatest fighter of all time. Today there are many who doubt his ability to conquer the ancient, much-beaten Braddock, who is fat and paunchy, with joints that creak with the rust of age and inactivity.

Will Louis shake off his lethargy and live up to the ballyhoo of his pre-Schmeling days? That, my friends, is the question.

RED BIRDS DOWNED DESPITE 4 HURLERS

Saints Even Score, 8-6, With Columbus; Mud Hens Win.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 16—American Association fans now enjoying the red-hot fight for leadership between Minneapolis and Toledo can thank a group of players who once cavorted in the majors—and possibly will soon be up there again.

Joe Sullivan, young hurler sent down by Detroit, won his own game yesterday as Toledo defeated the Millers, 2 to 1.

Ralph (Red) Kress, once a big league star on several clubs, continued the brilliant work that has been a factor in the Minneapolis rise to the league top. Kress tied the score in the eighth with his 17th homer of the season.

The triumph left the Mud Hens only one game behind Minneapolis.

St. Paul evened its series with Columbus, downing the Red Birds, 8 to 6, as little Art Herring outpitched four Columbus flingers. Herring allowed 12 safeties, the same number of blows as yielded by Macon, Heusser, Schroeder and Lanier, with Macon being charged with the loss. The winning blow was Bill Norman's home run with one on in the sixth.

Louisville defeated Milwaukee, 4 to 2, in a night game, with Bud Tising downing Ralph Winegarner in a duel in which both hurlers gave up eight hits.

Indianapolis won a night doubleheader from Kansas City, making it four out of five against the Blues. The ten-inning first game score was 8 to 7 and that of the seven-inning afterpiece was 6 to 1. The Blues overcame a five-run Indian lead in the first game to send it into the extra inning.

26 SEEK POSITIONS ON LEGION JR. TEAM; LIMA IS FIRST FOE

Initial Contest Tomorrow at Kenton at 3 p. m.; 15 Berths Open.

Twenty-six youthful baseball players are listed among the candidates for the American Legion Junior team, which will play its first game of the season tomorrow at Kenton. The squad has been working out daily at the Uncapher avenue diamond under the supervision of members of the American Legion committee directing the program.

The team will meet the Lima Junior Legion club tomorrow at 3 o'clock. Arrangements to play the contest at Kenton were made so that neither team would need to make a long road trip. Other games for the summer scheduled are being planned with teams in this section of the state, including Kenton, Ada, Richwood and several Columbus aggregations.

The playing roster of the Marion squad will be limited to 15 members, in accordance with rules governing the state and national junior legion program. The selection of the players, and the certification of their correct ages, must be made to the district chairman, Fred W. Simpson of Newark, before the deadline next Sunday at midnight. Because a majority of the team members are 16 years old and will be ineligible under the age limit for participation next year, the sponsors invite any younger baseball enthusiasts to workout with the club.

All of the players in excess of the 15 which will compose the first team, will continue their workouts, and be eligible for the playing roster next season. The age limit for participants bars any youth who was 17 at midnight of March 30 of this year. Walter F. Hane, vice-chairman of the committee in charge, is handling the certification of the players.

Among the prospective members, from which the first string lineup will be selected, are Glen E. Wintermute, Elmer L. Wood, Lester L. Lowey, LeRoy D. Everly, Nicholas Calfagno, James H. Huffman, Richard E. Detwiler, Eugene M. Lashey, Gordon B. Buckley, John Williams, John Fletcher, Elden W. Dillinger, Donald F. Annen, Edmund E. Young, Weldon L. Metz, Andrew R. Irvine, Vern C. Griffith, Thomas A. Young, Harry A. Mash, Robert J. Brown, Francis Ruzzo, Clyde A. Everly, Earl K. Reed, John J. Edington, Jr., and Lawrence E. Cocherl.

GAMES TOMORROW

NATIONAL LEAGUE—Boston at Chicago, New York at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia (only games scheduled).

FREMONT, June 16 — Woody Gardner, Fremont's leading twirler, pitched and batted his way to a 6 to 2 victory over the Sandusky Sailors in the Ohio State league game here yesterday.

Gardner doubled home three runs in the last of the sixth and clouted a four-bagger over the left field fence in the eighth. Karl Kaufman, centerfielder of the Sailors, and Manager Chapple Geygan, second baseman, both came through with a pair of hits in four trips to the plate for Sandusky.

In other Ohio State league games yesterday, the league-leading Mansfield Red Sox jolted Fostoria, 11 to 9, and Tiffin tightened its hold on third place by walloping Findlay, 9 to 3. TRIBE BLANKED, 3-0, BY LEADING YANKS; REDS BEAT DODGERS

Ruffing Gains Sixth Win, Gives Only Four Hits to Indians.

BY BILL BONI

Perhaps Charley Ruffing knew what he was doing when he held out until May 5. Perhaps Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, knew what he was doing when he let his prize right-hander pull an Achilles and sulk in his Nokomis, Ill., "tent."

Certainly a late start and missing the Yanks' spring training maneuvers appears not to have had any harmful effect on the pitching craft of Rufus the Red. For today the Ruppert Riflers are a full game ahead of American league pursuers on the strength of Ruffing's sixth victory and second straight shutout, a 3-0 blanking of the Cleveland Indians.

Manager Bill Terry led his troops into Pittsburgh as National league pace-setters but the Bucs won, 7-5; sent Carl Hubbell to the showers for the fifth straight time, and dropped the New Yorkers into the second slot, half a game away from the Cubs.

Shortly after that defeat, Terry announced he had sent Frank Gabler and cash, estimated at $35,000, to the Boston Bees in exchange for right-handed hitting Wally Berger.

Ruffing was the day's outstanding individual performer. He required relief in the eighth and again in the ninth in winning his first two games, but since then has gone the route in five starts. He has won four of them, allowing a shade less than six hits a game.

WOMEN PRO GOLFERS SEEK OPEN TITLE

Helen Hicks, Babe Didrikson Show Up Well at Western Meet.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 16—Those two young women to whom golf is a living, Helen (Billy) Hicks and Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, once again are plotting an all-"business women" final for the Women's Western open championship tournament.

They missed it two years ago at Chicago's Sunset Ridge club by a margin of one round, each faltering in the semi-finals before the shooting of Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City, and Josephine Souchek of Chicago, respectively. They were still in the battle for the 1937 title today, and shooting impressively enough to rate chances of reaching the title round together.

The most brilliant shooting of the opening day of hand-to-hand tussels, however, was contributed by Mrs. Russell Mann of Milwaukee. Mrs. Mann, who as Lucile Robinson of Des Moines, Ia., whipped Virginia Van Wie for the Western closed title in 1933, for her last title, blasted out six birdies to defeat Mrs. Hill, the 1935 and 1936 tournament winner, 5 and 4. Mrs. Mann was out in 25 strokes, four under par, and dropped one stroke to par for the five incoming holes necessary.

Mrs. Burt Well of Cincinnati, who won the medal with a fine 78 Monday, was among the missing today. She lost control of her putter and was eliminated by Paula Parker, 19-year-old Milwaukee blond, whose margin was 5 to 4.

PATTERNS 4440

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, June 17

WHILE THIS may be a lively and stirring day, according to the dominant sway of existing planets, yet there may be turmoil, confusion and agitation to be diverted into trends of constructive activity. There may be a spirit of initiative and enterprise, with the mental faculties under high pressure, but a corresponding urge to display petulance and recklessness may prove detrimental. Elders or their affairs seem to give concern, possibly in connection with an investment, inheritance or a trust.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a lively and enterprising year, with much of a constructive character calling for sound initiative, calm deliberation and acumen. Finance, investments or bequests engage the attention, possibly involving the estate of an elderly woman. Be wise with documents.

A child born on this day may be shrewd, energetic and enterprising, with finance or inheritance taking active part in its life, calling for wise manipulation and self-restraint, as recklessness may prove its undoing.

3 HURT IN MISHAP NEAR SYCAMORE

Special to The Star

SYCAMORE, June 16—Three motorists were injured Sunday when an automobile in which they were riding rolled over in the ditch on the Orewiis hill after being sideswiped by another car. Charles Keller, driver of the car, and Verne Kinn suffered bruises and Francis Schalk received head injuries.

Wool Market

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, June 16—Scattered sales of small to moderate volume were closed today on the Boston wool market. Prices were steady to firm though wools were not taken freely.

Good twelve-month Texas wool was sold at 54@55 cents scoured basis. Some purchases were reported in the country on orders from buyers and the costs delivered to buyers in the east were figured slightly below current quotations on spot wools in Boston.

Delivery of contracted western wools sold some time ago continued to fill a large part of the needs of users of these wools.

STRIKES CLIP STOCKS AGAIN

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 16—Apparent deepening of the steel strike cleavage sapped Wall Street energy today and stock prices were allowed to drift irregularly lower in quiet dealing.

Traders were in a gloomy mood, brokers said, owing to indications of heightened hostility along the independent steel company front.

Issues under a little pressure were Republic Steel, Inland Steel, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Anaconda, and New York Central.

There was mild demand for American Steel Foundries, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Chrysler.

Grains were mixed. Bonds were steady.

The vote of confidence given Premier Blum meant temporary relaxation of the French fiscal crisis, Wall Street observers said.

One factor brought into the foreground of trading influences by analysts was the recent action of commodity prices. It was recalled the fall in share prices which started in March was accelerated by commodity weakness.

As some observers saw it, the decline in grains, cotton, rubber and other staples seems to have spent itself.

Trading circles expressed satisfaction over the report of "Iron Age" that strikes in independent steel companies are having a "minimum" of influence on steel markets.

"New business in Pittsburgh and at one or two other points was slightly larger in the past week than in the week before," the survey said. This was seen as indicating some diversion of orders from strike-affected units to those not involved.

SHOWER PREDICTIONS SEND WHEAT DOWN

Failure of Winnipeg Market To Hold Its Gains also Bearish Factor.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 16 — Predictions of showers in Canada had more or less to do with bringing about late setbacks of Chicago wheat values today.

Failure of the Winnipeg wheat market to hold price gains and smallness of export business in Canadian wheat, 500,000 bushels, were bearish factors. Receipts of newly harvested wheat at domestic points southwest were liberal.

At the close, wheat was ⅞@1¼ cents under yesterday's finish, July 1.10½@⅝, Sept. 1.00⅝@⅞, corn 2¾ cents off to ⅝ up, July 1.11⅞@1.12⅛, Sept. 09½@⅝, and oats ⅛@¾ down.

ANOTHER MORGAN STORY

An interesting incident is told in connection with Gen. John Morgan's raid through Muskingum county in July, 1863.

A farmer at whose house the raiders called and demanded food proved very accommodating, and not only furnished them an abundance of food but entertained them afterward with some strong wine. The raiders drank so much of the wine that nearly all became intoxicated and were unable to remount their horses and continue on their way.

The result was that six of them were later taken by Union forces in pursuit of the raiders and hurried to Camp Chase at Columbus where they were held for many

TRIBE BLANKED, 3-0; REDS BEAT DODGERS

with yesterday's four as a new low.

While Hutting has been winning complete games for the Yanks, another big right-hander, Clay Bryant, has been saving games for the Cubs. Clay pulled another out of the fire yesterday when he relieved Tex Carleton in the fifth, let the Bees down with one hit and hung up his fifth win of the year, 3-1, to put Chicago on top for the first time this year. Four of his triumphs have come in relief roles and he hasn't lost one yet.

The Giants' defeat by the Pirates, their first in seven clashes, marked another episode in the mysterious malady that has beset Hubbell since the Dodgers ended his two-year winning streak at 24 games. He lasted less than two innings and lost his third in a row.

While the Yanks were whipping the fourth-place Indians, the Tigers won a 15-inning marathon from the Senators, 9-8, and moved into second ahead of the White Sox. The latter lost to Lefty Grove and the Red Sox, 3-1, the same score by which the Browns whipped the Athletics.

The Cardinals blasted 16 hits off three Phil pitchers to win their ninth in 10 starts, 13-4, and Waite Hoyt lost his first game in a Brooklyn uniform as the Dodgers' ninth-inning rally fell a run shy of tying the Reds. Johnny Vander Meer gave 11 bases on balls but only three hits to earn his third triumph, though he needed ninth-inning relief by Al Hollingsworth before the Reds won, 4-3.

LIMA FIRM FINANCES EXPLAINED AT TRIAL

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 16 — Lengthy testimony of Elmer F. Harsch concerning technical financing of the defunct Consolidated Motors Corp. of Lima, of which he was president, occupied common pleas court today at Edward T. Carney's trial on bribery charges.

Counsel for Carney, furloughed assistant chief of the state securities division, sought to show by Harsch's testimony that any money handled by Sidney A. Hesse was earned by him as attorney fees. Hesse is Carney's former law partner.

Carney is charged with accepting $6,050 in connection with certifying consolidated's stock for sale in the state.

The defense reported it had subpoenaed State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. He was expected to testify as to Carney's state salary and the duties of his position.

Harsch testified yesterday that a "deal" was made with Carney to obtain release by the state securities division of 10,000 shares of stock in Consolidated Motors.

LOVE LETTERS READ IN FIANCEE KILLING

Defense Seeks to Prove Girl's Affection Which Parents Opposed.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 16 — More than a score of letters, filled with endearing phrases of young love were before a jury of six men and six women today as they tried Joseph A. Caproni, 20, on a murder charge in the fatal shooting of his former fiancee, Beatrice A. Roth 19.

The missives were entered over the objections of the prosecution in what defense attorney William Thorndyke said was an effort to prove that Miss Roth still loved Caproni and held secret meetings with him long after her parents sought to break up their affair.

"Love meant more to them than life itself," Thorndyke told the jury as Judge Thomas H. Morrow ruled the missives were admissible "for what they are worth."

In one submitted she wrote:

"Can you kiss yourself for me darling? I send as many of them as you can possibly stand."

The defense expects to close its case tomorrow, Thorndyke said.

INCREASED BUYING POWER REQUESTED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16 — Administration economists, spurred by President Roosevelt's re-statement of economic policy, sought methods today for generating greater purchasing power among low income groups.

Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference late yesterday that if the one-third of the population in the lowest income class could increase its buying power, it would accelerate the business machine generally.

This, he said, would boost the national income, speed the flow of tax revenue into the treasury, and bring the budget into balance.

Example Cited

As an example, the President said that if taxpayers paid the government $6,000,000,000 when the national income was $80,000,000,000, revenue might be expected to total $9,000,000,000 if the national income reached $90,000,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt advanced no specific proposals for increasing purchasing power among low income groups, but said something might be accomplished by such steps as increasing the $10 monthly allowance for dependent children under the social security act and by fixing wage and hour standards.

WESLEY WINS, 12-4, OVER FOREST LAWN

...ost Lawn. The victorious club pounded Snyder, the opposing hurler from the mound in the fifth inning when they slammed out four hits and shoved over five runs. Although Wesley led 5 to 1 when the big fifth inning came along, the victory was virtually clinched with the five-run rally.

With the lanky Snyder on the mound, Epworth experienced little trouble in trouncing Salem, by the abstract score of 6 to 0. Snyder was nicked for only four singles, one each in the last four innings. Oddly enough no Salem player was able to hit safely twice off Snyder's offerings. The four safeties went to Price, Putnam, Melvin and Millikor.

Trinity's team outhit and outplayed Lee Street in the 8 to 1 victory over the Streeters at the Garfield park diamond. The Baptists collected eight hits, with Smart tripling and Hinamon doubling, to account for the only extra base singles. Lee Street went scoreless through the first five frames and managed to tally the single run in the sixth.

The score by innings of last night's games follow:

Trinity	002	001	1	—4	4	1
Lee Street	000	001	0	—1	6	2

Hice and Merchant; Hostettler and Young.

Salem	000	000	0	—0	4	1
Epworth	100	300	x	—4	10	1
